AGENTS

Since the formation of the Half Fanatics in 2009, a runner who is a member of both clubs is called a Double Agent.

Well, the Main Maniacs have decided to create an asylum dedicated to those who are Double Agents. In order to be assigned a Double Agent number you must have your dues paid and updated in both the MM and HF. Your name and e-mail address must match both clubs. Each day a program will run to generate new members.

New gear is available for Double Agents as well as a whole new set of challenges as you climb peaks.

For more information visit the Maniacs web site.

NEW MANIACS

JUNE 2016 NEWSLETTER

Steve Walters and Richard Baily

FROM THE EDITOR...

June seems to be the transition month from the full swing of Spring marathons to the hot weather that limits marathons. Many Maniacs took advantage of marathons in Oregon, Washington, Colorado, WV/KY, South Dakota and Alaska.

Happy Running!

MANIAC ONGOING DISCOUNTS

With the new website comes a new way to identify race discounts. All discounts are now located on the race calendar page. Look for the gold coin following the race name, that signifies a discount. Click the coin and after a brief disclaimer reminding us that discounts are for members only, the code will be revealed along with the amount saved.

The programmers are working on lots of website items and one is a non-race related discount link. Until that's complete, you'll need to email Jeff Bollman (jeff@marathonmaniacs.com) for the running warehouse discount.

RHETORICAL REVELATIONS AND W(RITES)... FROM THE RAMBUNCTIOUS REV

Dear Mister President Yee,

Boy oh boy, am I glad I can trust YOU, Sir! Life is difficult in any case, but what with running marathons? We need all the truth we can find to master this frequent marathoning quest, and there's a lot of untruth out there in the world, ever notice that? Gives me the shivers, and I'm aiming to inspire a movement to fix that! We need to face the nonsense (I was thinking of saying bull hockey, but I prefer a bit of dignity in conversation... quaint, perhaps, but I like clean air)... I say, face the nonsense wherever we find it! As it is so easily found on both sides of the street, we all need to consider disempowering it.

"The truth will set you free," Jesus said. Indeed. And so, Rev's guide to:

Decomposing the Untruths in the World of Marathoning

1) "You're almost there." So you are out on the course, feeling a little ragged, knowing you passed 13 miles, but have otherwise lost track, and some Loud Person on the curb, clacking a clacker, screeches supposedly thoughtful, but actually the mindless words, "You're almost THERE!!!!" Aahhh, no, no, we're not. The banner that says "FINISH"? Can't see it yet, and so misguided measurements that suggest blind faith that the ligaments can manage more ligging doesn't make it true. We may be decidedly nowhere near "there". So? So, understand the complexities and possibilities that ought to be considered in taking on the marathon, pay attention to the details, and proceed carefully.

2) "It's all downhill from here." Remarkably similar to the "You're almost there" lie, it is rarely, rarely ever all downhill from anywhere, even those courses with a net downhill total. Even they may have some confounding hill late in the game. Steamtown, one of the country's faster courses, has a whole neighborhood about mile 23 that puts out the family card tables with snacks to reward climbers at the top of their neighborhood's section, a rise so severe that some runners put on clamp-ons, unsheath their ice axes, and hook on to the anchored rope before attempting the ascent.

Lenore Dolphin's Yakima course is downhill, downstream through a river valley canyon, but miles 21 to 23 are so contentious that an optional ski lift has been recommended.

Unexpected gravitational challenges have become a marathon tradition, no doubt, thanks to Boston's Heartbreak Hill, which is a mere ripple compared to Big Sur's double whammy at 10 and then again at the unadvertised roller-coaster punishment at 19-23. So, if you hear a hollerer hollering "It's all downhill from here", hope for another observer with a clearer grasp of things.

3) "You're looking good!" Prez, I appreciate esthetically-pleasing appearances, but after mile 20, even the most impressive of our members need a shower. (Never mind that some of us don't look all that good running from the get-go.) Yet, the Lie comes! Well, what can one do? Smile politely and graciously, implying an acceptance at such fiddle-faddle? No! We must be courageous! Confront the lies with the truth I say

Allow me an illustration. At mile 23 at Steamtown one hot day, a lady among seven folks in lawn chairs on the sidewalk greeted me thusly: "You're looking good." Prez, I was not.

Now, while I actually have set a PR in my career, (knowing math as I do, it turns out one HAS to have a PR in there somewhere, no matter the range of numbers one's times include), I was not that day threatening the mark. So, with what waning wits I had left about me, I decided to elevate the national discourse with truth-telling. I disrupted my pace, limped over to her, smiled kindly, but stated firmly, "Ma'am, right now, the only thing around here that's looking good ... is that lawn chair, and you are sitting in it."

She just laughed, so having failed to produce a constructive conversation, I renewed making ambulatory progress in the general direction of the finish line. But we really must try, kindly.

4) This one isn't quite a lie, but in that it is offered so frequently as advice, one expects some sort of insightful wisdom in the content. Lacking such, it has the similar impact of the Outright Lie in being misleading. "Just put one foot in front of the other." Eh? Have we been unwittingly demonstrating some egregious error before The Lesson that perhaps needs the correcting?

5) One final Lie to be debugged, Young Fellow (now, see, that's not a lie: relative to me, your youthfulness is to celebrate, and the greeting stands, acceptable, cheerful even, with a bit of wise yet subtle encouragement to enjoy each day as precious), is a risk to take on. But out on the ledge I'll wander, though a multitude of Maniacs have employed this phrase since the earliest days of the club. I suggest we shake ourselves of the tradition, for reasons worth a listen.

"You can do it!" Uh, do what, exactly?

You see, there are (how would I know this?) some enthusiastic – yea I say verily verily – overly enthusiastic members who wish to emulate Yee and the Other Two Wise Men and assorted other heroes and heroines in here, and master the craft of frequent marathoning, with some respectable times thrown in now and again as well! This requires some disciplined reaches in training. And sosome of the Club might, say, set training goals that seem brilliant, the stuff of athleticism and progressive progress that might lead, (one MUST dream), to a Boston Qualifying time or the like!Faster, further, stretching runs to one-more mile, add some back-to-back long runs to really develop endurance, all the while remembering, (they say it all the time!) "You can do it!" until... sadly... the mind overrules other parts to keep going when, sigh, they cannot, and one part weakens while being attached to another part that required the first part's strength, and the next thing you know, well, one Can't do it. And suffers down-time to boot. One's own fault, to be sure. But all that cheering of the stump speech... obscured something true. To review:

1) Almost there? "Steady mate, steady. You've still got a bit to go!"

2) "Most of the hills are behind you, but keep some pep in reserve!"

3) Am I looking good? Perhaps better, "Like the effort!!!"

4) Footwork lessons? Now? Leave it at "Forward is good, Sir, forward is good!"

5) Finally, in the "Can-Do, go set the world on fire!" category, perhaps better a kind, "Geez, Louise, know thyself." Truth. Truth is good.

Hope it gets contagious soon.
